

The image contains two architectural drawings. The top drawing is a large, detailed perspective view of a modern building. The building is composed of two main volumes: a taller, white, three-story section on the left and a shorter, two-story section on the right. The shorter section has a dark grey ground floor and a white upper floor with large windows and a balcony. Both sections are elevated on thick, white, cylindrical stilts. The building is surrounded by stylized trees and shrubs. The bottom drawing is a smaller, perspective view showing a row of five similar buildings along a street. The buildings vary in height and color, with some having dark grey ground floors and others being entirely white. They are all supported by stilts. The street in front of them has dashed lines indicating a road.

Architectural visualization | MARSEL | www.marsel.hr